

The graph displays the population dynamics of female and male fish over a 100-day period. The female population (red line) shows a significant spike to nearly 1000 individuals around day 50, while the male population (blue line) remains consistently low, around 100 individuals, throughout the entire duration.

Male

